

Pharmaceuticals

Big pharmaceutical companies are unsustainable due in part to two specific problems: unethical clinical trials and conflicts of interest between articles published in scientific journals and drug companies.

